

To whom it may concern

Dear sir/madam

I have had the pleasure of teaching James Coomans this year in 4S at Ellison Public School.

James is a friendly, thoughtful and committed student who has an excellent relationship with his peers. His calm approach and ability to analyse issues that arise in the classroom are some of his strengths.

James is a delight to teach. He is an enthusiastic and conscientious participant in all aspects of school life. His mature approach and empathy for others, has earned him the respect of his peers. When representing the school, he is a supportive team member and a wonderful role model for others.

Throughout this year, he has been involved in the choir and was chosen for the Lower Blue Mountains Festival of the Arts. In sport, he has represented the school in the Winmalee Cup and Summer Games. Other activities he has participated in are Chess club and Digi Ed , a computer one day course. He is a willing and determined participant and always strives to do his best at any academic, sporting or creative activity.

I know James will be an asset to any school. He will be missed by his many friends and teachers.

Yours faithfully

Mrs Kath Seymour
